Patient specific for infection control

 etac[®]

Molift UnoSling HighBack

Molift UnoSling HighBack is suitable for most users in common lifting situations. The sling is a patient specific sling, intended for an individual user and for short-term use. An effective solution to prevent transmission of infection.

High requirements for infection control

The Molift UnoSling HighBack is a personal disposable product designed to meet the demands and challenges of today's hospital environment. Slings for short-term use are specific to a single user, and an effective solution for preventing the transmission of infection.

The UnoSling has a high back and is suitable for most users in the most common hoisting situations, such as between bed and wheelchair or to the toilet. The sling remains with the user during the entire length of their stay in hospital.

Sling for short-term use

The UnoSling is manufactured in a strong non-woven material which is not washable. The sling is discarded if it becomes dirty or damaged, or if the user no longer needs it.

- A personal disposable sling for short-term use
- Hoisting to and from lying or sitting position
- Support for the entire back and the head
- For environments with a short term need for a sling. Can be used several times by the same user.
